Executive Summary

On January 21, 2016, Digitech Inc. was called in to assist the National Gallery, Washington D.C. (NGDC) case involving the conspiracy associated with the theft of valuable stamps and defacing of museums are at the NGDC.

- Tracy is a suspect in the aforementioned conspiracy.
- As part of the investigation, Tracy's iPhone was taken into custody.
- Digitech, Inc. was tasked with investigating evidence relevant to the aforementioned conspiracy.

As described fully in the report, Digitech, Inc. made the following findings.

- The evidence indicated that Tracy, using the alias Coral was plotting the stamp heist with her brother Pat, that was using the alias Perry.
- Evidence of email correspondence between Tracy (Coral) and Pat (Perry) contained images and letters of the National Gallery DC stamps.
- Digitech also found evidence of a third person named King, who Pat, aka Perry was trying to coerce into helping with the heist.
- Motivated by financial gain, Tracy also helped an individual named Carry to smuggle a tablet into the Gallery. The named individual also received from Tracy information on the National Gallery's security shift changes.

Equipment and Tools

Digitech used the Autopsy open-source forensics tool on a Kali Linux host to analyze an image of Tracy's iPhone. Additional tools such as DB Browser, Google Maps, and Epoch Converter were also used.

Evidence relating to the theft of valuable stamps

This sub-section provides details regarding the evidence found as it relates to the theft of valuable stamps.

In Appendix A, artifacts #9, 10, and 12, we find details of Tracy's plan to steal valuable stamps from a collection exhibiting at the National Gallery with her brother Pat. In artifacts #14, 15, and 19, we can see that Pat is using intimidation and blackmail while trying to enroll the help of someone called King and is currently out on parole. King agrees to be a part of the heist and sends a list of requirements. Pat forwards the list to Tracy and sends her instructions over SMS on how to access the attachment (artifacts #19 and 35). As seen in artifact #16, Tracy emails Pat the insurance documents for the stamp collection. The two attachments, documents.zip, and docs.zip contain 3 Stamp Insurance documents, details of which is given in Appendix C. Further evidence found on Tracy's iPhone showing multiple photos of the stamps mentioned in the insurance documents can be seen in Appendix D.

Evidence relating to defacement of museum art

This sub-section provides details regarding the evidence found as it relates to the defacement of museum art.

Evidence shows that Tracy communicated with Carry on multiple occasions. In Appendix A, artifacts #13, 26, and 27 Carry reached out to Tracy to meet over lunch. Further confirmation of the meeting can be found in artifacts #33 and 34 which show SMS communication between Carry and Tracy who are about to meet. Two days later (artifact #17), Carry thanks, Tracy, for lunch and asks for help to sneak a tablet into the National Gallery for a flash mob event she was planning and mentions that she would compensate Tracy for her help. Tracy agrees to sneak in the tablet and a meeting is set for the next day at 9 (artifact #18 & 20). In her reply, Carry asks if Tracy can provide her with information on security shift changes, in exchange for compensation (artifact #20). Tracy agrees to pass off the security shift information and asks for money as compensation (artifact #20). Evidence of the meeting and tablet being sneaked in can be found in artifacts #41 and 42. As per artifact # 43, Tracy messaged carry asking about how the flash mob was going. This message and earlier communication together present a view that although Tracy has leaked information and smugged in the tablet, was not aware that the flash mob was a setup to deface museum art.

Plot Timeline

Plot Timeline
Date	Information
6/19/2012	Pat and Tracy agree on a plan to make money and they set up Virtual Machines and agree to use the alias names Perry (Pat), Coral (Tracy), and emails perrypatsum@yahoo.com, coralbluetwo@hotmail.com.
7/2/2012	Tracy informs Pat about the upcoming exhibit and that this could be the opportunity they've been waiting for.
7/3/2012	Tracy needs money to pay for their daughter's school and with her husband's refusal to help, she further discuss with her brother about the rare exhibit of the valuable stamp collection.
7/5/2012	Carry emails Tracy to meet up and the two confirm the time and location via SMS
7/6/2012	Pat tries to blackmail someone called King, into assisting with the heist. Tracy meets with Carry
7/9/2012	Tracy emails her brother's insurance documents related to the stamps. Carry asks Tracy to sneak in a tablet.
7/10/2012	Tracy agrees to help Carry and sets up a meeting. King agrees to help with the heist and sends a file containing the equipment needed for the job
7/11/2012	Tracy confirmed the meeting with Carry. Carry asks Tracy if she can give her information about the shift changes in security. Tracy agrees to meet her in front of the National Gallery.
7/12/2012	Tracy asks to Carry how the flash mob is going

Conclusion

Evidence found on Tracy's iPhone indicated the following:

- The evidence shows that Terry was conspiring with Pat and King to steal the valuable stamps from the National Gallery.
- The investigation also found that Terry was having financial issues with paying for her daughter's tuition and was willing to give sensitive information and smuggle a tablet in order to help Carry who was planning a "flash mob" at the National Gallery. In return, Carry would compensate Terry financially.
- The discovery to deface artwork at National Gallery was a consequence of finding out about the heist.
